LAW LIBRARY JOURNAL

Vol. III · JULY, 1910 No. 2

1910 CONFERENCE

The fifth annual meeting of the American Association of Law Libraries held at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac, Michigan, has just closed. It is pronounced the most interesting and successful conference yet held by the Association. Mr. George S. Godard, State Librarian of Connecticut, was elected president in place of Mr. Feazel, who retires after having very successfully administered the affairs of the Association for two years. Mr. Luther E. Hewitt, of the Law Association Library, Philadelphia, Pa., was elected vice president, and Mr. Franklin O. Poole, Association of the Bar Library, New York City, was continued in office as secretary-treasurer.

Several actions were taken by the Association with reference to the Index to Legal Periodicals and Law Library Journal, all tending to improve and make it more useful to its subscribers.

The papers read at the conference, and business transacted will be fully reported in future numbers of the Journal. It is impossible to prepare any of the material in time for this number without seriously delaying its publication, hence we are obliged to content ourselves with this short general account of the meeting.

TO SUBSCRIBERS

The publisher's supply of copies of Vol. 1, No. 3 (October, 1908) of the Index to Legal Periodicals and Law Library Journal has been exhausted. This number is valuable only on account of the articles contained therein, the index portion having been superseded by the annual number for that year. Subscribers having extra or duplicate copies thereof, for which they have no use, will confer a favor by mailing them to the Managing Editor.
